

About Me

I'm Nyatichi.

I'm just a girl with a passion for healing, introspection and transformation. My interest originally began well over five years ago when I was newly unemployed, in the middle of an identity crisis, while struggling with a couple of pesky psychological conditions. This challenged me learn more about healing if I didn't want to become a victim of them. It has taken years, but all of those different approaches I tried have left me with an assortment of techniques and reminders that keep me sane, healthy, and optimistic. This victory aroused my interest in helping others overcome the same, through one-on-one coaching.

Over the course of my healing journey and my career as a wellness coach in the personal growth field, I have had the privilege of speaking to and for firstborn daughters. While telling my story, I spoke on behalf of myself, in defense of other firstborn daughters, and on the part of women who, however incorrectly, perceived that I have a voice greater than their own. This led to the birth of Hai, my coaching practice, through which I have followed my fascination with wellness into content creation, and designing wellness journals and programs; making the therapy and gentle guidance I always needed, accessible to everyone everywhere.

Healing and Introspection

Hai

Hai means 'alive' in Kiswahili, a reminder that healing isn't just about recovery, it's about returning to yourself. Hai, my coaching practice, is a call to those brave enough to come alive through healing and introspection. It's an invitation to look within, to question, to grow, and to meet yourself with honesty and compassion. Through my content, the thoughtfully designed wellness journals, and the coaching program, Hai guides you through the six dimensions that make you uniquely you, the physical, mental, social, emotional, intellectual, and spiritual. By nurturing all six, you create balance and resilience, the kind that keeps old patterns, addictions, and painful experiences from defining or limiting you. At its core, Hai is about growth, healing, and happiness, about feeling alive in your body, your choices, and your purpose.

Wellness Coaching

How I will work with you

My approach to wellness coaching is shaped by both who I am and what research shows to be most effective for lasting change. At its heart, this work is grounded in genuine acceptance, gratitude, respect for your strengths, the cultivation of strong, loving relationships, and a healthy sense of humor. This program is centered on healing and self-mastery through guided, one-on-one conversations held on video call. Each session will support you in creating more success, happiness, and well-being.

During our sessions, we may explore and work through a variety of themes, such as: Burnout and emotional fatigue, Childhood trauma, Firstborn daughter (eldest daughter) syndrome, People-pleasing and self-abandonment, Boundary setting and self-trust, Self-esteem and confidence, Anxiety and overwhelm, Building a genuine support system, Intimacy and vulnerability, Navigating family dysfunction, Productivity and balance, Mindful eating and body connection, Personal sovereignty and authentic living. My goal is to create a compassionate, empowering space where you can reconnect with yourself, redefine wellness on your own terms, and develop the tools to live a fuller, more grounded life.
